The city clerk shall keep all this material as part of the public record of the city commission. If the city commission determines that a proposed major development, together with other developments in the impact area, which have certificates of occupancy or valid building permits currently in effect, or for which capacity has been reserved, would not cause or result in a violation of the standards established by this article, and is in full compliance with other applicable laws, ordinances or regulations, then the city commission shall approve the application for development permit. If the city commission determines that the proposed development, together with other developments in the impact area, which have certificates of occupancy or valid building permits currently in effect, or for which capacity has been reserved, would cause or result in a violation of the standards established by this article, then the city commission may:
 - (1) Deny the application;
 - (2) Phase the application to ensure compliance with these standards;
 - (3) Modify the application so that these standards are met; or
 - (4) Grant conditional approval or modification of the application, attaching whatever reasonable conditions or requirements the city commission deems necessary to ensure compliance with these standards or maximum mitigation of the adverse impacts of the development.
- (f) Development conditions. These conditions may include, without limitation, requiring the applicant, at his cost and expense, to:
 - (1) Finance or dedicate land for public rights-of-way, easements, parks and open space, or school sites;
 - (2) Finance or construct potable water, wastewater or drainage facilities; or
 - (3) Any other reasonable condition necessary to ensure compliance with these standards prior to the issuance of a certificate of occupancy, if the applicant agrees in writing in a recordable agreement binding upon his successors and assigns, that no certificate of occupancy will be issued until the requirements of this article are met. Otherwise, all conditions must be satisfied prior to issuance of the development permit. Attachment of these conditions shall be voluntary on the part of the applicant; and agreement by the applicant to provide any conditions will not,
